The necessities of this fearful catastrophe are appearing more and more from day to day. The Committee sit daily and receive the applications of the sufferers. The position of affairs is this:—One whole street lies in ruins. Fourteen other streets, containing 200 houses, are more or less shattered; 400 families look to the Committee for reparation and comfort; 40 persons lie badly wounded in the hospital; there has been loss of home, clothing, tools, costly working materials, &c. Add to these, health impaired, limbs lost, and lives forfeited. And now the cost of the buildings is estimated at between £12,000 and £15,000.

The Relief Committee have supplied all absolute wants to the present time, and have been actively promoting the return of the men to work, by providing them with tools in lieu of those they had lost, and in refitting them in house and home and furniture. Care is also specially taken of the families of the wounded sufferers in the hospitals.

The Committee have been enabled to render considerable comfort and help to the distressed families by the boxes of clothing, blankets, &c., kindly forwarded to the residence of the Incumbent.

Bankers—The London and County Bank, Clerkenwell, 21, High-street, N.

The Committee are permitted to announce that the Right Hon. the LORD MAYOR has kindly consented to receive subscriptions for this fund at the Mansion House.
